- Mongolians love holidays. There are many unique and interesting holidays in Mongolian culture, and tourists travel from around the world to participate in these special traditions. In the winter there is New Years and Tsagaan Sar, Naadam in the summer, and Women's Day and Soldier's Day in the spring. Of all these wonderful holidays, Tsagaan Sar is my favorite because I can eat delicious food, receive many presents, and meet all of my friends and relatives.
- First of all, I like Tsagaan Sar because Mongolians eat delicious food during Tsagaan Sar. Mongolian families spend a lot of time making traditional Mongolian foods. Buuz is my favorite traditional food, and during Tsagaan Sar, everyone must eat buuz. So, Tsagaan Sar is my favorite holiday.
- Second, Mongolians receive many presents during Tsagaan Sar. Every family must give presents to their guests. For example, last year I received a beautiful sweater, an expensive necklace, and a lot of chocolate. Of course all people love to receive presents, so I like Tsagaan Sar!
- Finally, all relatives and friends gather together during Tsagaan Sar. These days, Mongolians are very busy with work and school, and they cannot meet each other often. For instance, I only see my grandparents during Tsagaan Sar every year. Tsagaan Sar is very important for Mongolian families.
- In conclusion, Tsagaan Sar is a wonderful holiday for many reasons. I like Tsagaan Sar because of the food, the presents, and the people. Tsagaan Sar is an important holiday to Mongolians and to me!
